7 MOCKTAILS TO DRINK THIS SUMMER

By Theresa Beckhusen

The rise of mocktails probably isn't another case of millennials murdering something—but with more and more restaurants designating menus to boozeless mixed drinks, they sure are more ubiquitous than ever.

Why mocktails? These sippers let you keep the party going without the hangover, they're typically a little cheaper than their liquor-laden counterparts, and the whole "wellness culture" thing doesn't hurt, either. After all, when someone abstains from alcohol, it doesn't automatically mean they're going full temperance movement. The booze-free drinks of this new generation are mixed, shaken, and/or stirred with the same level of attention and care as a classic cocktail—and they're just as colorful, and served in a fun glass.

Join us on a tour of the Twin Cities' finest mocktails and raise a glass of the not-so-hard stuff to trying new things!

CRAZY LEGS AT GRAND CATCH

When you enter Grand Catch, the scent of garlic butter envelops you, inviting you to a feast you crack open with your fingers. Whether you're enjoying a shrimp boil or crab legs, you'll want something to wet your whistle—and if you like fruit-forward and sweet, the Crazy

Legs will be your go-to. Served with a big sprig of basil, this watermelon pink-red mocktail is all about the strawberry and hibiscus, evoking summer pitchers of Kool-Aid in the best way. For a fresh, herbal kick that cuts the sweetness, muddle that basil right into the glass.

#4: PENNYWORT, CUCUMBER, GINGER, LIME AT HAI HAI

There are many kinds of pennywort in the world, but it's centella asiatica or Asian pennywort that's frequently used in southeast Asian cuisines—appearing in salads, rolls, curries, stir-fries, and more. At Hai Hai, you'll find pennywort blended with cucumber, ginger, and lime for an easy summer sipper. Did we mention it's also a looker? In keeping with Hai Hai's saturated color scheme, this drink is very, very green. Wouldn't look too shabby on Instagram in front of the restaurant's yellow walls, just sayin'.

IT'S ABOUT THYME AT W.A. FROST

Regular readers of City Pages and diners at W.A. Frost already know that this iconic St. Paul restaurant is offering a variety of no-proof cocktails, many involving Seedlip, a non-alcoholic spirit that closely mimics the real thing. Enter It's About Thyme, a light, refreshing, not-too-sweet drink. It's summery: Citrus from grapefruit and lime make the perfect sweet-sour combination, as bubbly tonic keeps things fun, and thyme grounds the drink with its savoriness. For those who think thyme—with its oregano-like scent and flavor—is an odd choice, trust that this is the key to the mocktail's perfect balance.

GALADRIEL AT MARVEL BAR

You too can feel like Cate Blanchett by quaffing a mocktail named after her the Lord of the Rings character. Served in a Collins glass with hunks of crystalline ice, Galadriel is colorless and effervescent, flavored with citric acid, basswood, and elder. It's straightforward and lovely. Yes, there's the citrus, but it's the drink's sweet, resinous quality from the basswood and elder that is most striking. It tastes the way we imagine sap might: thick, sweet, and unidentifiably woody—not unlike its name-sake—a mysterious combo that keeps us coming back for more.

BURNT PINEAPPLE SPRITZER AT MERITAGE

Meritage is as renowned for its deep wine cellar as its towers of fresh oysters, but St. Paul's premier French restaurant also has three mocktails on offer. The Burnt Pineapple Spritzer is the most complex: toasty and sweet, with a little lime coming in to lend everything some tartness. Add in some aromatic bitters, and you've got a tasty drink where you won't notice the absence of alcohol. Meritage's

TRINITY AT NORSEMAN DISTILLERY

Whether you're relaxing on Norseman's patio or ducking into the airy converted warehouse space, settle in with the Trinity. On paper, it's reminiscent of a margarita: sour from vinegar, sweet and tart from lime, with a bit of brininess from the salt. Made from a combination of drinking vinegar, black salt, lime, and seltzer, the first sip hits you with fizz and light bubbles from the seltzer and the deployment of champagne vinegar. Unlike its distilled white cousin, this vinegar gives the drink a satisfying tang and a tasty bitterness that's ultimately evened out by its luxe origins. The lime finish doesn't hurt, either.

THE 9 BEST HAPPY HOURS IN THE TWIN CITIES FOR EATING

By Stacy Brooks

When handed a happy hour menu, there are some of us who skip right past the two-for-one beers and go straight to the best part: the food.

Maybe it's because we're always hungry and a glass of house wine isn't going to tide us over until dinner. Maybe it's because we have to stay sober for the drive home. Maybe we're cheapskates who appreciate a good deal at restaurants we couldn't afford during dinner-time. Maybe we just really love fries.

Whatever the reason, there's no shame in being a person whose favorite part of happy hour is the part you chew instead of sip. For you, we've compiled a list of the best happy hours for food in the Twin Cities. Looking for extraordinary bar fare? Budget-friendly bites that can double as dinner? An amazing order of frites? They're all here.

And yeah, each of these places has pretty great drinks, too.

HAI HAI

Tasty as happy hour food is, menus tend to hit the same familiar beats. Hai Hai stands out for some unique options: Think perfectly fried tofu with a lime leaf sauce or sticky rice garnished with gossamer strands of pork floss. Even the fried wontons are something special, thanks to the addition of chicken liver pâté and the passion fruit-chili sauce on the side. As a bonus, some items can be made vegetarian or vegan by request.

THE NEWS ROOM

Maybe we're partial to a bar with decor that celebrates the printed word, but the News Room also offers a menu of $5 elevated bar fare that you can enjoy on a writer's paycheck. Our favorite is the margherita flatbread, its immense and oh-so-delicious crispy crust topped with a fresh basil pesto and loaded with shaved Parmesan. Other options include salmon bruschetta, a hummus sampler, and spinach and feta croquettes.

your happy place. The hand-cut pommes frites are served with a side of béarnaise sauce, a riff on hollandaise typically served with steak—it's the most elegant order of fries you'll come across in the Twin Cities. If you're in the mood for more French cuisine, try the gougères (described on the menu as "adult Cheez-Its") or the ham and cheese croquettes.

KYATCHI

Combining a good deal with a good cause warms both the heart and the wallet. At Kyatchi, all of the seafood—including the discounted happy hour menu—is selected based on third-party sustainability guidelines. Our favorite happy hour pick is the chirashi, a bowl of sushi rice topped with sashimi and vegetables that's a steal for $11.50. The sushi combo is also a good bet, with a chef's choice roll plus three pieces of nigiri. Or go classic with the salmon avocado roll.

This beloved Russian eatery serves a hearty happy hour menu that your grandmother would approve of and that also happens to pair pretty damn well with vodka. ICEHOUSE Icehouse's menu of happy hour food is more extensive than some restaurants' dinner offerings, with everything from bar snacks to rib-sticking sandwiches. You can go classic with the smoked chicken wings or opt for a globally influenced hot dog topped with kimchi. There's plenty of comfort food (the poutine is even made with mushroom gravy so that it's vegetarian-friendly), as well as the Instagram-worthy Ploughman's Platter, loaded with smoked meat, fish, and other savories.

TERZO

In Italy, the aperitivo is a cultural ritual—a time between work and dinner to unwind with friends, sip a drink, and savor some elegantly simple bar snacks. For those of us who want to indulge in this delightful tradition but can't afford the flight, there's happy hour at Terzo. Order some olives, chips with aioli, or arancini. Take advantage of a $1 discount on salumi and cheeses. Then settle in and imagine you're in Sicily.

AUGUSTINE'S BAR & BAKERY

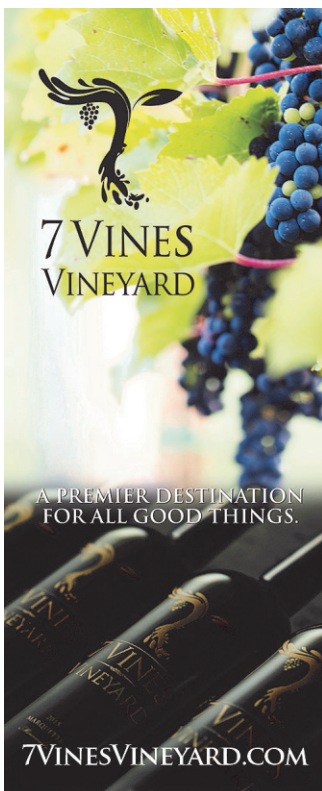

Happy hour food can get a bit monotonous for those eschewing meat—believe it or not, there is a limit to how many orders of fries you can enjoy. Augustine's Bar & Bakery offers some thoughtful options for vegetarians beyond "just leave off the meat," like nachos topped with miso-roasted vegetables. There's also the Fern Gully flatbread with fiddlehead ferns, oyster mushrooms, asparagus, and arugula. And you can soften the start of the work week with a Monday happy hour that lasts all day.

MURRAY'S STEAKHOUSE

For most of us, a meal at Murray's is reserved for anniversaries, birthdays, or when your rich uncle is in town. But here's how you can enjoy a fancy steakhouse on a fast-food budget: Swing by the bar for the happy hour menu. Our top pick is the steak burger slider that weighs in at a respectable three ounces and rings up at only $4. You can also splurge on the full-sized version for $10 or get a decent crab cake slider for $5.
